Dallas Willard says about Heart and Soul:
Spiritual maturity is commonly thought of in terms of ministerial effectiveness or "performance." This tends to lead to burdensome lives and burnout, on the one hand, and the catastrophic failures caused by lack of inner integrity on the other. Performance is not widely thought of as requiring emotional maturity and personal wholeness. Perhaps just grim determination and some talent. Our aim is to show how spiritual formation in Christ and emotional wholeness are parts of the one life which God intends and makes possible for us. From such a life, love, joy, peace, and performance flow in one harmonious stream. It is the gift of God for us to learn to receive.
